

Pheromones And Scent

Powerful agents to attract the opposite sex or to enhance your love life can be created when special scents are combined with high quality pheromones. Pheromones tend to be natural chemicals in which animals, including human beings, naturally release to attract the opposite sex. Pheromones cannot consciously be identified, but can register a response with the vomeronasal organ (VNO), which resides in the nasal passage. Certain scents, for example vanilla, can sometimes promote thoughts of sex. The combination of the right fragrances and pheromones can be a more powerful sexual attractant than either the scent or pheromone alone.

Amazingly These Agents are Easy to Use Because You Simply Wear Them on Your Skin

Users of a pheromone scent that smells like a day at the beach, are directed in order to wear some upon their forehead, bridge of the nose, and neck. This helps the sexual attractant to radiate in the area in front of the wearer so that they may become the recipient or focus of sexual interest.

Mass marketed fragrances are designed to appeal to the individual wearing but are not good sex attractants. Believe it or not, sometimes certain food scents can draw a reaction. In the long run, a wearer who is willing to use a scent that is unconventional may be the wisest or luckiest individual to receive interest from the opposite sex.

Good Indication that a Fragrance is a Sexual Attractant is that It Cannot be Identified

Instead, the scent tends to change but is always pleasant. The brain unconsciously tries to identify the source. In the end the brain responds to the odor resulting in sexual arousal. This may be the reason why sometimes females have told us that they felt intrigued and interested, but at the same time they did not know why. Hard to identify but pleasant scents at times can be the best aromas to attract the opposite sex.
